 Modular Furniture

Educational Furniture

Roger Haydock & Co. Ltd. manufacture a range of high performance educational furniture to the highest standards, using a variety of melamine faced chipboards, mdf and high pressure laminates.

Offering flat pack or fully assembled options we work with architects and specifiers to design and create the most economical and ergonomic solution.

With pods becoming increasingly popular for student accommodation, we manufacture bespoke products to fit all requirements.

Office Furniture

Similar to the Roger Haydock range of educational furniture, we manufacture (to order) a wide variety of desks (cantilever & panel end) together with pedestals, tambours, wardrobes and cupboards. All these are available in a variety of designs and materials. Working as a sub contractor to several of the industry's major brands, we can offer specific designs or individual batches of bespoke ranges. With clients increasingly wanting adaptations of popular ranges, we are in an ideal position to satisfy their demands.

Finishing Processes

Our finishing processes include:

- machinery
- cross cutting
- profiling
- spraying
- varnishing
- sanding
- laminating

Laboratory Furniture

Using carcasses which are identical to those used in the office range, we manufacture high quality robust laboratory furniture using the best high pressure laminates for applications such as clean air rooms. Whilst the structures of the products are consistent with our educational range, technological innovations in materials available enable us to supply into universities, hospitals and other medical environments.

With the increasing use of modular construction techniques, modular furniture is becoming more popular. This enables us to apply the same manufacturing process across different industry sectors. Whether it is hotel, educational, office or laboratory furniture that is required, we are able to satisfy all requirements.

Testimonials

Roger Haydock were able to deliver a cost effective, bespoke product to a very tight timescale. They demonstrated their ability to understand, design and manufacture to a high standard in a professional manner and we will certainly be offering them the opportunity to deliver again.
